EnerSys Announces Preliminary Non-Cash Intangible Impairment Charge

Reading, PA, USA, March 13, 2015 -- EnerSys (NYSE: ENS) the global leader in stored energy solutions for industrial applications, announced today that it expects to record a fourth quarter non-cash goodwill impairment charge of approximately $25 million to reduce the carrying value of the Company's goodwill, which had a book value of $403 million at December 28, 2014.

The reasons for the charge are certain reporting units in the Americas have been negatively impacted by the slowdown in the enclosure business resulting from lower capital spending by a major customer in the telecommunications market and the cancellation of certain programs with a major contractor serving the aerospace and defense markets.

The Company is finalizing its annual goodwill impairment testing, which commenced on the first day of the fourth quarter of fiscal 2015, which was December 29, 2014, and estimates that the charge is expected to be approximately $25 million, with minimal expected tax benefit. Upon completion of the annual goodwill impairment testing, the final charge will be recorded and reported in the Company's Annual Report on Form 10-K for the fiscal year ending March 31, 2015.

The impact on the Company's reported net earnings per diluted share as a result of this charge is expected to be approximately $0.54 per share. The guidance for non-GAAP adjusted net earnings per diluted share for the fourth quarter issued in the Company's press release on February 4, 2015 remains unchanged. That guidance was $1.10 to $1.14 and excluded highlighted charges. This impairment charge is also excluded from the guidance.

While the goodwill impairment charge will reduce the Company's reported results under US GAAP, it will be non-cash in nature and will not affect the Company's liquidity, cash flows from operating activities and debt covenants, nor will it have any impact on future operations.

A description of the Company's accounting policies and practices related to goodwill and other intangible assets can be found in the Company's Annual Report on Form 10-K for the fiscal year ended March 31, 2014 and Quarterly Report on Form 10-Q for the fiscal period ended December 28, 2014.
